

Hints for practising at home

Getting to know people

Look for photos of famous people in newspapers or magazines. Imagine you are meeting them at a party! Use the Spanish you've learned to ask their names and where they come from and make up their replies.

Hola. ¿Qué tal? ¿Cómo te llamas?

Me llamo George Bush.

¿De dónde eres?

Soy americano, de Texas.

Surfing in Spanish

Visit the website of the Cafetería La Tetera, in Pucón, Chile:

www.tetera.cl/espanol/menu2.htm.

Take a look at the salads, omelettes and pasta dishes. What's also served with them?

Don't forget www.wordreference.com if you need a dictionary.

Spanish on television

If you've recorded* the Talk Spanish TV series, have a look at Programme 2, where you can join Spaniards having coffee and drink with friends in a bar – and learn how to make cocktails.

You could follow it up by going to bbc.co.uk/languages/spanish/talk, click on Quiero and have a go at the activities.

*Talk Spanish is repeated regularly on BBC TWO, on the Learning Zone, and you'll find the programme schedules on bbc.co.uk/learningzone.
